RMI Signs New Five-Year Agreement with Southern Railway of British Columbia SRY Enhances and Renews Commitment to Using RMI's RailConnect Suite of Services

Atlanta, GA – May 3, 2010 -- RMI, the largest independent provider of comprehensive rail information services to the transportation industry, announced today it has reached a new five-year agreement with Southern Railway of British Columbia (SRY Rail Link), a Washington Company, for the expanded and continued use of RMI's RailConnect suite of services.

"SRY conducted extensive analysis and determined that RMI could take us into the future and help us meet our business automation targets. We believe that RailConnect will continue to provide SRY with real, measurable value. RMI has helped facilitate our positive growth through the years, and they continue to work closely with us to design and develop solutions that exceed industry and SRY requirements. We are moving to integrate our operations more fully with our shippers through the RMI ShipperConnect tool and to use other features previously unavailable to us," said Frank Butzelaar, President of SRY Rail Link.

RMI VP of Marketing and Services, Kirk Knauff, said, "We are extremely pleased to be able to provide SRY with increased RMI services. We look forward to assisting SRY in meeting its objectives. Their commitment to the use of our products and services is very important to us. We will continue to work closely with SRY to enhance the RailConnect suite and further automate business processes."

About RMI

About SRY

Southern Railway of British Columbia serves the Fraser Valley and lower Mainland, originating and terminating thousands of carloads of traffic each year on Annacis Island, a key distribution center for automobiles and forest products. SRY's diverse customer base includes over 150 shippers of forest, building, agricultural, chemical, consumer and steel products located on the 125 miles of track operated.

SRY's recently opened Annacis Rail Marine Terminal offers both truck and rail access, connecting the Seaspan Coastal Intermodal (SCIC) with SRY Rail Link's operations on Vancouver Island and the Lower Mainland. The new facility provides Vancouver Island and Coastal BC industries with direct interline access to the four western Class 1 railroads, Canadian National, Canadian Pacific Railway, Union Pacific Railroad, and BNSF Railway Company, via SRY's interchanges in New Westminster, BC.
